THREE FARMS ARE SHOWN, TWO OF WHICH EXTEND ACROSS THE COUNTY BOUNDARY (- - -). THESE CROSS-LINE FARMS ARE OUTLINED IN WHITE. FOR CENSUS PURPOSES ALL OF FARM 1 WAS CREDITED TO COUNTY B SINCE THE FARM BUILDINGS ARE IN THAT COUNTY. FOR A SIMILAR REASON ALL OF FARM 3 WAS CREDITED TO COUNTY A. FARM 2 LIES ALONG THE COUNTY BOUNDARY BUT IS WHOLLY WITHIN COUNTY B WITH NO CROSS-LINE ACREAGE INVOLVED. FOR AGRICULTURE CENSUS PURPOSES THE BOUNDARY BETWEEN THE TWO COUNTIES IS THE SOLID BLACK LINE (———), NOT THE BROKEN LINE.

CROSS-LINE ACREAGE

BY HILTON E. ROBISON

Introduction.—This report[1] is concerned with farms lying in two or more minor civil divisions, counties, or States and particularly with the acreage in these farms which lies in a different minor civil division, county, or State from that in which the farm was enumerated. In the reports for the 1940 Census of Agriculture, data for farms having land in two or more minor civil divisions, counties, or States, were credited to only one of the geographic areas, namely, the one in which the farmstead was located. Thus the statistics for a particular geographic area may not exactly represent the agriculture in that area. Some areas were credited with considerable agriculture represented by farm lands lying outside these areas, and for others the figures were correspondingly short. In 1940 a minimum of 3.9 percent of the land in farms was credited to a different minor civil division from that in which the land was located, 1.6 percent to a different county, and 0.2 percent to a different State.

Minor civil divisions.—In general the term "minor civil division," or "M.C.D.," is used to designate the political units into which the county is divided for local administrative or judicial purposes. Where an independent municipality extends across county lines, such municipality represents a single minor civil division; however, it is included in the count of minor civil divisions in each of the counties in which it falls. For 1940 such duplications are excluded from the State totals. The figures given for the number of minor civil divisions for 1935 represent the units of area into which the counties were subdivided for the 1935 Agriculture Census. These units, for the most part, conform to minor civil divisions. Some examples of units not conforming to minor civil divisions are (1) an independent city, village, or town extending across county lines, in which case the part within each county was treated as a separate unit; (2) certain cases where an independent city was considered a single unit although containing several minor civil divisions of a county; and (3) units of unorganized territory. Thus the differences between the count of minor civil divisions shown for the two census years do not in all cases represent actual changes in the minor civil divisions.

These so-called minor civil divisions are given various designations in different States or, sometimes, even in the same county. In most States the designation is "townships," "towns," or "election precincts." Often there is a combination of two or more forms or unusual types. Table 1, presenting the number of counties and minor civil divisions by States, gives the various M.C.D. designations and the number of M.C.D.'s in each.

Of the 51,627 minor civil divisions in the United States, 48,179, or 93.3 percent, reported farms at the 1940 Census. Of those reporting farms, 25,949, or 53.9 percent, reported cross-line acreage.

Census definition of a farm.—A farm, for census purposes, is defined as all the land on which some agricultural operations are performed by one person, either by his own labor alone or with the assistance of members of his household, or hired employees. Thus a "farm" may consist of a single tract of land, or a number of separate tracts, and the several tracts may be held under different tenures, as when one tract is owned by the farmer and another tract is rented by him. If both an owned and a rented tract were farmed by the same operator both tracts were to be considered as one farm even though the tracts may not have been contiguous and even though each tract may have been locally called a farm.

Farms in two or more minor civil divisions, counties, or States.—From the Census definition, it is apparent that a farm, consisting of all the land operated by one person, does not necessarily need to lie wholly within an M.C.D., a county, or a State. In most instances the M.C.D., county, and State boundaries follow survey lines or natural boundaries which are also the boundaries of the farms lying along the M.C.D., county, or State lines. In survey areas the patterns of both ownership tracts and of political areas were determined very largely by the survey. Therefore, in general, the property lines and the political boundaries in such areas follow township, range, or section lines. Where land was under private ownership prior to the organization of a political area, the property lines probably helped, in many instances, to determine the political boundaries; and where the political boundaries preceded private ownership, these probably helped to determine the property lines. Therefore, tracts representing original private holdings rarely extend across political boundaries.

Most of the cases of farms extending across political boundaries have occurred because of additional land added to an original ownership tract, or because of the consolidation, either by purchase or rental, of several original ownership tracts. Such consolidations have taken place to the greatest extent in those areas where the original tracts represented too small an economic unit, as, for example, the Great Plain and Mountain States. In the West North Central States, the average size of farm increased from 142 acres in 1880 to 252 acres in 1940. In the Mountain States, the average size was 159 acres in 1880 and 822 acres in 1940. In these areas the operating units often comprise a rather complex intermingling of separate tracts owned or rented by the farm or ranch operator or, in the case of a managed farm, his employer. This is particularly true in regard to range lands where, in order to provide range for all seasons, often rather widely separated tracts may be used. The owned and rented lands may be supplemented by open or public range, not included as a part of the acreage in the farm, such as National Forests or Taylor Grazing Lands grazed under permit. The leased range lands in 1940 included considerable acreages rented from Federal, State, or other government agencies. This was particularly true in the Mountain States where such leased range lands accounted for a large part of the increase of 22 percent in all land in farms in this area between 1930 and 1940. Probably much of this land was formerly open range.

In areas where there have been no substantial increases in the size of farms any consolidation of holdings is more likely to consist of adjacent tracts. In these areas consolidations have undoubtedly occurred with less frequency than in areas where increases in the size of farms have indicated numerous consolidations.

Thus, it is evident that the number of farms with land in two or more M.C.D.'s, counties, or States has tended to increase gradually and may be expected to continue to increase. In general, such farms probably had very little effect on the earlier censuses, except in a few instances of large ranches extending into several counties. In the more recent censuses such farms have undoubtedly had a considerable effect in many instances upon the Agriculture Census statistics by geographic areas. This is particularly true for the past three censuses, 1940, 1935, and 1930, since for these years figures for specified items have been presented by minor civil divisions. For the earlier censuses the county, as a general rule, was the smallest geographic area for which figures were shown.

"Cross-line farms" and "cross-line acreage."—For convenience farms with land in two or more minor civil divisions, counties, or States are referred to as cross-line farms and the land in the minor civil divisions, counties, or States other than where the farmstead is located are referred to as cross-line acreage.

[1]Special acknowledgment is due Lois Hutchison for the assembling of data and preparation of tables.

Enumeration of cross-line farms.—In the 1940 Census, the enumerators were instructed as follows: "Occasionally a farm will be found in your district that has part of the land extending into another township or county (or into another enumeration district when there are two or more enumeration districts in the same township). In such cases, the entire farm is to be enumerated in that district in which the farmstead is located. The word 'township,' as used above, is intended to cover the minor civil divisions locally called townships, towns, wards, precincts, districts, beats, etc., as called for in the Enumerator's Record."

Provision was made for entering on the schedule the minor civil division and county names and the cross-line acreage for each minor civil division in which the cross-line acreage was located. Provision was also made for entering, for survey areas, the location of all land in the farm by section, township, and range. This portion of the schedule was as follows:

If any part of this farm is in another Minor Civil Division, give location and acreage—

M.C.D.	COUNTY	ACRES

If this farm is located—
In surveyed area, give Sec. No. _____; Township _____; Range _____
Sec. No. _____; Township _____; Range _____

The section, township, and range when reported were helpful in verifying cross-line acreage reports, in supplying omitted cross-line acreage where land was indicated as lying in other M.C.D.'s or counties, and in determining the location and extent of the cross-line acreage where there was some indication that acreage might extend into other minor civil divisions, counties, or States. Although the survey description applied to the entire acreage it was not feasible to check these descriptions to determine whether reports of cross-line acreage had been omitted.

History of enumeration of cross-line acreage.—Beginning with the Census of 1850, the first for which the number and acreage of farms were enumerated, there is an implication that farms lying partly in other districts were returned in the district where the operator lived although no specific mention regarding such farms is made in the instructions or in the reports for that year. The instructions for that census include the following statement in regard to the acreage to be included in the farm: "It is not necessary that it should be contiguous, but it must be owned or managed by the person whose name is inserted in the column." The following additional instructions related to unimproved land in the farm: "It * * * may be a wood lot or other land at some distance but owned in connection with the farm, the timber or range of which is used for farm purposes." Specific mention of farms extending into another subdivision was first made in the instructions for the Census of 1870 as follows: "A distant wood lot or sheep pasture, even if in another subdivision, is to be treated as a part of the farm * * *." Similar instructions were carried for the 1880 and 1890 Censuses. For 1900 the instructions were more explicit: "In reporting the acreage, value, and crops of each farm, care should be taken to include the acreage, value, and crops of all wood lots, pastures, meadows, plow lands, and other lands, occupied or used in connection therewith. This is to be done, although not all of such lands are situated in the same enumeration district, or are owned by the same individual, corporation, or institution." Further instructions stated: "In all sections of the country many farms are to be found with lands lying in two or more enumeration districts. When the occupant or manager of such a farm resides upon the same or any part of it, the whole farm should be reported in the enumeration district in which the occupant or manager has his habitation."

No reports of the cross-line farms or of the extent of the cross-line acreage were made by the enumerators until the Census of 1925. For that census the instructions to enumerators stated: "In case of a very large farm lying partly outside the county for which it is enumerated, note on the margin of the schedule approximately the number of acres outside that county." In 1930, the reports for cross-line acreage were again limited to "very large" farms but the information to be entered in the margin of the schedule included the name of each county and township. As the reports for neither year were satisfactory no use was made of the information except occasionally for checking purposes where the acreage in farms returned for a particular county appeared to be unreasonably high as when it was in excess of the approximate land area of the county.

In the 1935 Census, for all farms lying in more than one M.C.D., the enumerators were asked to report, in the margin of the schedule, the name of each M.C.D. and the acreage located therein. Although again the reports were not entirely satisfactory, the cross-line acreage was tabulated by location of the farmstead, or place of enumeration, by counties. These data for 1935 are included in this report.

In the hope of securing more complete reports of cross-line acreage, blanks were provided on the 1940 schedule for entering this information under the Enumerator's Record and Certificate.

Statistics for cross-line farms.—The statistics presented in this report for cross-line acreage for 1940 are classified by the area to which such acreage was credited and also by the area in which the land was actually located. The figures presented include not only the farms reporting and the amount of cross-line acreage but also the total land in the farms which reported cross-line acreage. These statistics are presented by counties in table 5 and by divisions and States in table 2. Although the cross-line acreage statistics were tabulated by the M.C.D. in which the farms were enumerated, it was not feasible to present the figures by M.C.D.'s because of limitations of the data, particularly their inadequacy for obtaining the net cross-line acreage in each M.C.D. County totals, however, are given for farms having cross-line acreage in more than one M.C.D. within the county. It is believed that these data, although by counties rather than by M.C.D.'s, will nevertheless be of considerable value when using agriculture census statistics for M.C.D.'s.

Separate figures are given for farms with cross-line acreage in other counties within a State and for those with cross-line acreage in other States. The number of farms, total land in farms, and the cross-line acreage classified by the type of geographic area for which the cross-line acreage was reported are summarized in table 3. From this table, it will be noted that some farms report cross-line acreage in two or more types of geographic areas. Farms reporting cross-line acreage in other counties within the State may also have cross-line acreage in other M.C.D.'s within the county or in other States; and farms with cross-line acreage in other States may also have cross-line acreage in other counties of the State or in other M.C.D.'s of the county. In such cases, there will be duplications in the reports of cross-line acreage in other M.C.D.'s of the county, in other counties of the State, and in other States. These duplications are excluded in the county totals of all farms reporting cross-line acreage.

The tabulations by location of the cross-line acreage were restricted to the reports of cross-line acreage in other counties and in other States since there was a tendency, where the cross-line acreage extended into another county, to omit the M.C.D. when giving the location of the cross-line acreage. Since cross-line acreage for a particular farm was sometimes reported in two or more counties, the county figures for cross-line farms by location of the cross-line acreage contain some duplications. Such duplications have been eliminated from the State total, also geographic division and United States totals. The number and acreage of farms by number of counties for which cross-line acreage was reported and by number of States for which cross-line acreage was reported are given in table 4.

Supplemental information presented along with the statistics on cross-line acreage include the total number of M.C.D.'s, the M.C.D.'s with farms, and those with farms reporting cross-line acreage. Also presented are the approximate land area of each county and the number and acreage of all farms. These items are given as they appear in the Census Reports presenting agriculture census statistics by counties. The net difference in farm land reported as located within a county and the acreage of farm land as enumerated is presented in order to provide some measure of the net effect on the figures of crediting the agriculture for an entire farm to the geographic area where the farmstead was located without regard to the location of the rest of the farm.

Comparable statistics when available are presented for the Census of 1935. Statistics of cross-line farms were tabulated for the first time at that census. For that year tabulations were made by counties of the number of farms reporting and the cross-line acreage in other M.C.D.'s of the county, in other counties of the State, and in other States, or with the location not specified. For 1935 the cross-line acreage in other States or with location not specified include a considerable number of reports with the location not specified. Therefore, the statistics for cross-line acreage in other States for 1935 are not comparable with those presented for 1940.

Differences in the cross-line statistics for 1940 and 1935 should not be taken as indications of change. The enumeration in both years was too incomplete to justify this use of the figures. The figures for the two censuses are given in order to present a more complete picture of the cross-line acreage than is possible from the tabulations for either year taken separately.

Appraisal of the enumeration of cross-line acreage.— In the 1940 Census of Agriculture the reports of acreage in other minor civil divisions, counties, or States were obviously incomplete. No satisfactory enumeration of cross-line acreage has been made at any census. Prior to 1940, enumerators were asked to report cross-line acreage in the margin of the schedules. It was hoped that the enumeration for 1940 might be improved by making provision for this information on the schedule, but there is no evidence that this resulted in any improvement. In fact, from the tabulations, it appears that the cross-line acreage may not have been as well reported in 1940 as in 1935. Fewer cross-line farms and less cross-line acreage were reported for 1940 than for 1935. Some decrease in the actual number of cross-line farms might be expected to accompany the decrease in the number of all farms, but the percentage decrease in farms reporting cross-line acreage was more than the percentage decrease in all farms. With a general increase in size of farm a relatively greater proportion would have been expected to report cross-line acreage.

In many areas, the cross-line acreage reported in 1940 was considerably less than that reported in 1935 despite increases in the size of farms in those areas accompanied by increases in total farm land. For example, in Arizona the percent of the land in all farms reported as cross-line acreage decreased from 18.0 in 1935 to 0.5 in 1940. Only a part of this tremendous decrease can be explained by the decrease in number of M.C.D.'s from 336 to 42 since the cross-line acreage reported as located in other counties of the State and in other States also showed a large decrease, changing from 13.6 percent of land in all farms in 1935 to 0.4 percent in 1940. Yet in this 5-year period the average size of farm in Arizona nearly doubled and the number of farms of 10,000 acres and over increased from 240 to 383. Nevada is another extreme example. The cross-line acreage reported for Nevada in 1940 amounted to only 6.4 percent of the land in all farms as compared with 15.3 percent in 1935.

The incompleteness of the cross-line acreage reports becomes apparent when comparisons of the land in farms and the land area are made for M.C.D.'s and for counties. Many M.C.D.'s and a few counties show differences which indicate considerably more cross-line acreage than was reported. This failure to report appears to have been most serious in the western States particularly with the large farms and ranches.

There are several reasons why cross-line acreage may not have been reported. There appeared to be a rather general tendency to omit both the cross-line acreage and the survey descriptions of rented lands. Perhaps the operator did not realize that these inquiries applied to rented as well as owned lands, or perhaps he did not always know the locations of the rented lands by M.C.D.'s or have readily available the survey descriptions. Many of the larger farms and ranches were operated by managers who may not have known the M.C.D. locations of any of the cross-line acreage. In many areas the minor civil divisions and minor civil division boundaries are not generally known, except to persons residing in the M.C.D. A part of the difficulty with the large farms and ranches may have been the large number of M.C.D.'s into which cross-line acreage sometimes extended and the limited space provided on the schedule for entering the cross-line acreage. Another reason why the enumeration of cross-line acreage, in the 1940 Census, may not have been as satisfactory as was hoped for may have been the question regarding the location of farms by section, township, and range. The enumerator may have seen no need for giving the location both by minor civil division and by section, township, and range.

Cross-line acreage extending into other counties was frequently reported without the M.C.D. location. Again the reports often omitted any intervening M.C.D.'s within the county. It is likely that in many such instances there was cross-line acreage in these intervening M.C.D.'s. In general, the acreage extending across county lines was probably reported somewhat better than that extending merely across M.C.D. lines.

Although the reports for cross-line acreage were not entirely satisfactory, they provide some means for measuring roughly the possible distortions in the agriculture census data when classified by geographic areas, especially small areas. The figures for cross-line acreage give some indication of the amount of the cross-line acreage and its relative importance in different sections even though the figures for any particular area may not be entirely satisfactory. See the discussion under "Effects of cross-line acreage on agriculture census statistics."

Number of cross-line farms.—For the United States, 2.4 percent of the farms in 1940 reported cross-line acreage. Only 0.73 percent of the farms reported acreage extending into other counties of the same State and into other States, and 0.04 percent extending into other States. Cross-line farms were most numerous in the West North Central States, amounting to 6.3 percent of all farms. The South Atlantic and East South Central States had the smallest proportion of farms reporting cross-line acreage with only 0.59 and 0.40 percent, respectively.

Note that the proportion of farms reporting acreage extending into other M.C.D.'s, that is, the proportion of farms reporting any cross-line acreage, is 3.3 times as great as the proportion of farms reporting acreage extending into other counties. This ratio is not quite as great as might be expected from the relationship between the perimeters and areas of the average M.C.D. and of the average county. From these relationships the expected ratio would be approximately 4 to 1. The recorded ratio would probably have been somewhat higher had the acreage extending only into other M.C.D.'s of the same county been reported equally as well as that extending across county lines. Although cross-line acreage extending into other counties was obviously incompletely reported it was probably better reported than cross-line acreage extending only into other M.C.D.'s.

The number of farms extending across geographic boundaries and the cross-line acreage in such farms in general depends upon the number of farms along or near such boundaries and their size. With farms of a given size the proportion reporting cross-line acreage tends to decrease with the size of the geographic area under consideration. For example: A township 6 miles square contains 144 quarter sections of which 44 or 30.6 percent touch the boundary. A county 24 miles square contains 2,304 quarter sections of which 188, or 8.2 percent, touch the boundaries. From this it is apparent why the agriculture on the cross-line acreage may affect the agriculture census statistics for minor civil divisions to a much greater extent than those for counties.

With an area of a given size the proportion of farms reporting cross-line acreage tends to increase with the size of the farms. For example, in a county 24 miles square only 8.2 percent of the quarter sections lie along the boundaries, as compared with 16.0 percent of the sections. Thus, in this example, an increase from quarter sections to sections resulted in an increase of 2 to 1 in the proportion of farms lying along the boundaries. This explains in part why farms with acreage extending into other counties are relatively more important in the western part of the country than in the eastern part. Farms east of the Mississippi River average 93.5 acres as compared with 284.9 acres for farms west of the Mississippi. For the States east of the Mississippi 0.4 percent of the farms reported acreage extending into other counties as compared with 1.0 percent west of the Mississippi. See also the discussion under "Farms in two or more M.C.D.'s, counties, or States."

Extent of the cross-line acreage.—The total cross-line acreage reported at the 1940 Census amounted to 3.9 percent of the land in all farms and 40.7 percent of the total acreage in the farms reporting cross-line acreage. The extent of the cross-line acreage as a proportion of the land in all farms depends upon both the number of farms lying in two or more M.C.D.'s, counties, or States and the size of such cross-line farms as compared with the size of other farms. Often the cross-line acreage reported for a single farm represents a very large proportion of the total farm land enumerated in a particular M.C.D. or county. This is especially true of some of the larger ranches in the Great Plain, Mountain, and Pacific States. The range lands used by a large ranch are quite frequently located in several M.C.D.'s or counties. The cross-line acreage reported for many of the range States appears to be much less than the actual cross-line acreage. Many very large ranches in the range areas failed to report any cross-line acreage, yet it was obvious that the entire acreage in the ranch could not have been within the boundaries of the M.C.D. where the ranch was enumerated. The 1940 reports for Arizona represent an extreme example of such under enumeration. As mentioned under the "Appraisal of the enumeration of cross-line acreage," 18.0 percent of the land in all farms for Arizona was reported as cross-line acreage in 1935 but only 0.5 percent was reported as cross-line acreage in 1940.

The cross-line acreage reported in 1940 ranged from 0.4 percent for land in all farms for Kentucky, Maryland, and Mississippi, to 11.0 percent in Utah. North Dakota had the next highest percentage, with 9.7. Nebraska and Kansas followed with 9.5 and 8.4 percent, respectively.

Size of cross-line farms.—Cross-line farms are much larger on an average than are other farms. In general, the cross-line acreage averages considerably more than the total acreage in the average farm not reporting cross-line acreage. Farms reporting cross-line acreage in 1940 averaged 706 acres, the cross-line acreage averaging 287 acres. The average size of farms in the United States not reporting cross-line acreage was 161 acres. Farms with cross-line acreage extending into other counties, regardless of State, averaged 1,088 acres as compared with 167 for farms with no cross-line acreage reported in other counties. In general, the size of farms with cross-line acreage in other counties tends to increase with the number of counties into which the cross-line acreage extends. For example: Those with cross-line acreage in 1 county averaged 873 acres as compared with 6,549 acres for those with cross-line acreage in 2 counties, and 50,757 acres for those with cross-line acreage in 3 or more counties. Farms with cross-line acreage extending into other States averaged 1,711 acres as compared with 173 for farms with no acreage reported in other States. Farms with cross-line acreage in 1 State averaged 1,673 acres as compared with 9,726 for those with cross-line acreage in 2 States.

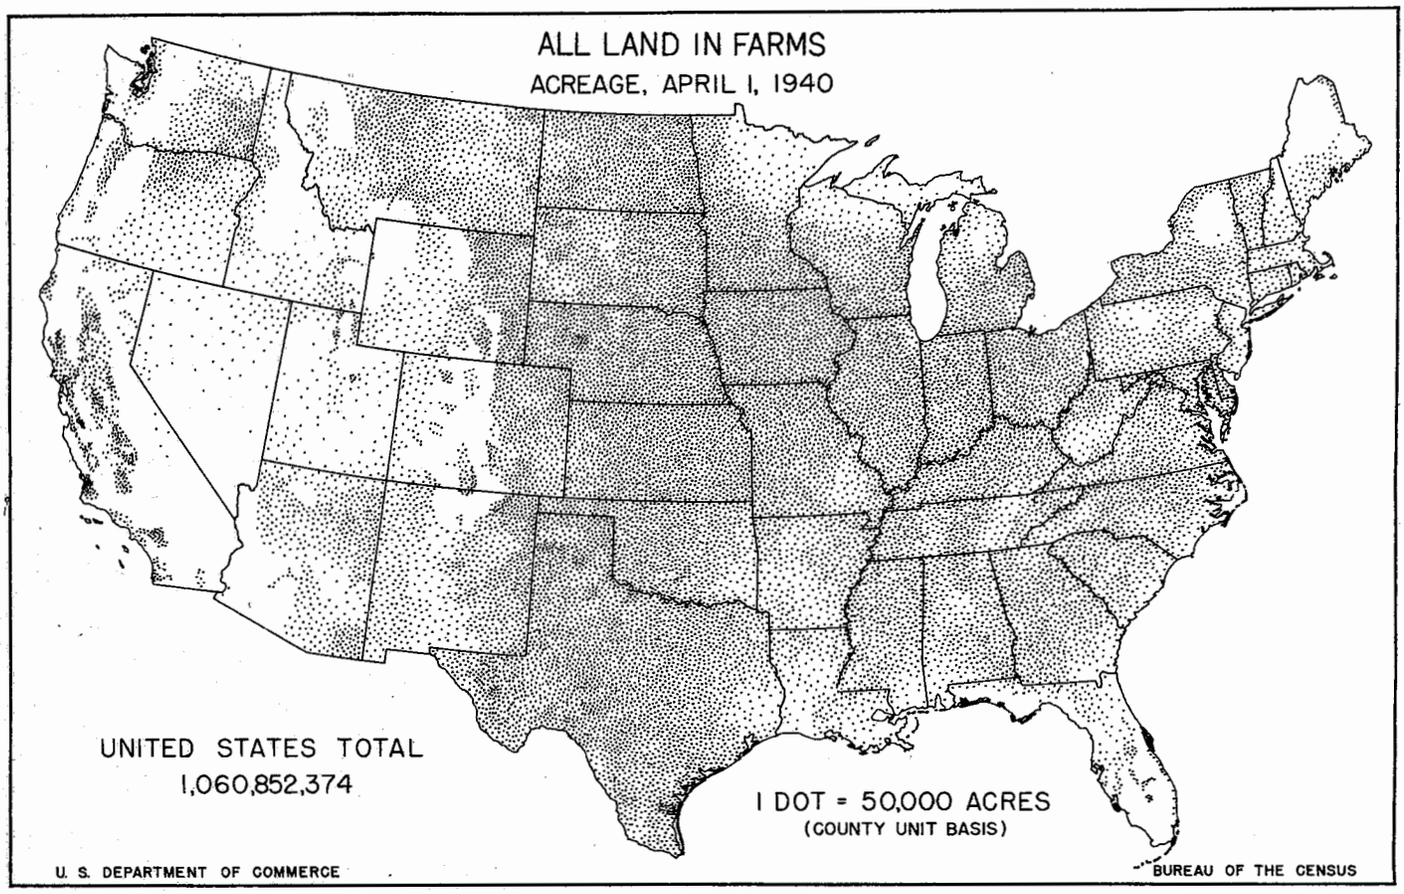

Effects of cross-line acreage on agriculture census statistics.—In general, the various items included in the 1940 Census of Agriculture were tabulated to secure county totals. The tabulations for most of the items were by M.C.D.'s. In these tabulations all items for farms lying in two or more geographic areas were credited to that area in which the farm was enumerated. The statistics for a particular geographic area may therefore include some agriculture for land which lies outside of the area, or it may exclude the agriculture for some of the land lying within the area. For counties where the land in farms exceeded the approximate land area a footnote was used in the reports calling attention to the fact that the entire acreage of a farm was tabulated as in the county in which the headquarters was located, even though a part of the farm may have been situated in an adjoining county. Otherwise the reports give no explanation of possible distortions of the data which may have resulted from cross-line acreage.

The statistics by counties are published in State bulletins and in volumes I and II, and the statistics by States are published in volume III. The statistics by minor civil divisions for most items included in the 1940 Census are in tabular form. These tables have not been published but are available at cost of photographic reproduction.

The extent of the cross-line acreage credited to an area and the extent of cross-line acreage lying within an area but credited elsewhere gives some indication of the effects on the statistics for other agriculture items. In many areas, these effects tend to be offsetting. In others, the figures for a particular M.C.D. or county may be considerably under or considerably over the true figures for the farm lands lying within the area. The figures for the acreage and value of farms and for farm land by use are affected in all instances. Where the cross-line acreage is largely grazing lands, such as in the range areas of the Mountain and Pacific States, the only other statistics that might be appreciably affected would be livestock items. The livestock items, however, would not necessarily be affected by the cross-line acreage since there would be some tendency to credit livestock to the portion of the farm or ranch where the buildings are located regardless of the method followed in enumerating cross-line acreage. The statistics for crops are probably affected to a much greater extent than are those for livestock. Crop statistics are probably affected most in the West North Central States. In much of the Great Plains area it has been necessary for farm operators to bring several original ownership tracts into single operating units in order to obtain farms of economic size for crop production.

This crediting of data for farms having land in two or more M.C.D.'s, counties, or States to only one of the geographic areas, namely, the one in which the farmstead was located was also true of the Census Reports for Agriculture for earlier years.

Comparisons of historical Census data by geographic areas are not affected to any appreciable extent by cross-line acreage so long as the number and acreage of farms having such cross-line acreage remain constant. If, however, there has been much of a shift of cross-line acreage from one geographic area to another the comparability of the statistics for the various censuses may be practically destroyed. This is most likely to happen where the cross-line acreages represent rented tracts. For example, large acreages of range lands may be leased by one operator at the time of one census and by a different operator in another geographic area at the next census. Where the cross-line acreage represents lands owned by the operator there is much less likelihood that the comparability between censuses will be affected. However, in some instances shifts in the location of the headquarters of large operators from one county to another have destroyed the historic comparability of census data.

[1] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 2,536 such farms with 6,281,739 total acres, 12 of which farms reported cross-line acreage in other minor civil divisions of the county, in other counties within the State, and in other States. In 1935 there were 3,422 such farms.

[2] Less than one-tenth of 1 percent.

[3] Totals do not equal the sum of individual States because of 13 farms with 126,437 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other States.

[1] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 8 such farms with 31,404 total acres and in 1935 there were 10 such farms. [2] Less than one-tenth of 1 percent. [3] Exclusive of cross-line acreage in farms indicating but not reporting the extent of the cross-line acreage. All land in such farms amounted to 979 acres. [4] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 6 farms with 5,790 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other counties.

[2] Less than one-tenth of 1 percent. [12] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State, and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 29 such farms with 169,072 total acres, 1 of which farms reported cross-line acreage in other minor civil divisions of the county, in other counties of the State, and in other States. In 1935 there were 52 such farms. [13] Exclusive of cross-line acreage in farms indicating but not reporting the extent of the cross-line acreage. All land in such farms amounted to 307,943 acres. [14] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 41 farms with 373,976 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other counties and 4 farms with 131,628 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 3 other counties. [15] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 2 farms with 23,967 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 counties of this State and 1 farm with 3,411 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 3 counties of this State.

[16] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 23 such farms with 108,160 total acres, 1 of which farms reported cross-line acreage in other minor civil divisions of the county, in other counties of the State, and in other States. In 1935 there were 51 such farms. [17] Exclusive of cross-line acreage in farms indicating but not reporting the extent of the cross-line acreage. All land in such farms amounted to 57,626 acres. [18] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 24 farms with 188,525 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other counties and 2 farms with 87,324 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 3 other counties. [19] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 3 farms with 6,859 total acres reporting 2,319 cross-line acres located in State, but county was not specified.

[2] Less than one-tenth of 1 percent. [27] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because 1 of the minor civil divisions in the State lies in 2 counties. [28] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 11 such farms with 13,449 total acres and in 1935 there were 13 such farms. [29] Exclusive of cross-line acreage in farms indicating but not reporting the extent of the cross-line acreage. All land in such farms amounted to 2,562 acres. [33] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 11 such farms with 41,303 total acres and in 1935 there were 18 such farms. [34] Exclusive of cross-line acreage in farms indicating but not reporting the extent of the cross-line acreage. All land in such farms amounted to 3,342 acres. [36] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 6 farms with 14,991 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other counties. [36] Totals do not equal sum of individual counties because of 1 farm with 2,440 total acres reporting 40 cross-line acres located in State, but county was not specified and 3 farms with 2,080 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 counties of this State.

[2] Less than one-tenth of 1 percent. [37] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 125 such farms with 58,157 total acres and in 1935 there were 213 such farms. [38] Exclusive of cross-line acreage in farms indicating but not reporting the extent of the cross-line acreage. All land in such farms amounted to 1,225 acres. [39] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 43 farms with 21,959 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other counties. [40] Totals do not equal sum of individual counties because of 1 farm with 81 total acres reporting 40 cross-line acres located in State, but county was not specified.

* Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because 1 of the minor civil divisions in the State lies in 2 counties.

[2] Less than one-tenth of 1 percent. [49] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 477 such farms with 887,050 total acres, 3 of which farms reported cross-line acreage in other minor civil divisions of the county, in other counties of the State, and in other States and in 1935 there were 448 such farms. [50] Exclusive of cross-line acreage in farms indicating but not reporting the extent of the cross-line acreage. All land in such farms amounted to 10,355 acres. [51] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 140 farms with 267,287 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other counties and 11 farms with 61,649 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 3 other counties. [52] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 6 farms with 12,566 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 counties of this State.

[2] Less than one-tenth of 1 percent. [53] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 8 such farms with 3,667 total acres and in 1935 there were 12 such farms. [54] Exclusive of cross-line acreage in farms indicating but not reporting the extent of the cross-line acreage. All land in such farms amounted to 504 acres. [55] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 15 farms with 23,729 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other counties.

[2] Less than one-tenth of 1 percent. [21] The apparent excess of land reported as located in the county (line 9 plus line 64) over the land area of the county (line 11) is probably due to incomplete reports of cross-line acreage. See text.

[56] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the parish, in other parishes within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of parish or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 4 such farms with 2,676 total acres and in 1935 there were 3 such farms. [57] Exclusive of cross-line acreage in farms indicating but not reporting the extent of the cross-line acreage. All land in such farms amounted to 1,328 acres. [58] Totals do not equal the sum of individual parishes because of 1 farm with 362 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other parishes, 1 farm with 9,626 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 3 other parishes.

[2] Less than one-tenth of 1 percent. [59] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 18 such farms with 18,215 total acres and in 1935 there were 14 such farms. [60] Exclusive of cross-line acreage in farms indicating but not reporting the extent of the cross-line acreage. All land in such farms amounted to 1,396 acres. [61] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 4 farms with 11,370 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other counties.

[2] Less than one-tenth of 1 percent. [62] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 2 such farms with 827 total acres. [63] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 1 farm with 100 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other counties.

[64] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 6 such farms with 10,299 total acres and in 1935 there were 10 such farms.

(2) Less than one-tenth of 1 percent. [66] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 63 such farms with 19,255 total acres and in 1935 there were 78 such farms. [66] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 17 farms with 6,503 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other counties and 5 farms with 2,045 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 3 other counties.

* Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because 1 of the minor civil divisions in the State lies in 2 counties.

[2] Less than one-tenth of 1 percent. [67] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because 10 of the minor civil divisions in the States lie in 2 counties and 1 in 3 counties. [68] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 101 such farms with 57,628 total acres and in 1935 there were 130 such farms. [69] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 21 farms with 7,433 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other counties and 3 farms with 1,915 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 3 other counties.

[2] Less than one-tenth of 1 percent. [70] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 6 such farms with 6,979 total acres and in 1935 there were 2 such farms. [71] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 6 farms with 1,551 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other counties.

[a] Less than one-tenth of 1 percent. [21] The apparent excess of land reported as located in the county (line 9 plus line 64) over the land area of the county (line 11) is probably due to incomplete reports of cross-line acreage. See text. [61] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because 1 of the minor civil divisions in the State lies in 2 counties. [62] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 269 such farms with 1,253,268 total acres, 3 of which farms reported cross-line acreage in other minor civil divisions of the county, in other counties of the State, and in other States. In 1935 there were 232 such farms. [63] Exclusive of cross-line acreage in farms indicating but not reporting the extent of the cross-line acreage. All land in such farms amounted to 85,720 acres. [64] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 71 farms with 400,272 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other counties, 1 farm with 942 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 3 other counties, and 1 farm with 206,400 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 4 other counties. [65] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 1 farm with 1,280 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 counties of this State.

[86] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 5 such farms with 68,019 total acres and in 1935 there were 17 such farms. [87] Exclusive of cross-line acreage in farms indicating but not reporting the extent of the cross-line acreage. All land in such farms amounted to 3,197 acres. [88] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 6 farms with 822,500 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other counties and 1 farm with 6,120 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 3 other counties.

[2] Less than one-tenth of 1 percent. [95] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 2 of the minor civil divisions in the States lie in 3 counties and 1 lies in 5 counties. [96] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 25 such farms with 10,881 total acres and in 1935 there were 22 such farms. [97] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 7 farms with 1,144 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other counties.

(2) Less than one-tenth of 1 percent. [98] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 17 such farms with 8,041 total acres and in 1935 there were 30 such farms. [99] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 4 farms with 1,125 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other counties.

2 Less than one-tenth of 1 percent. 100 Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because 4 of the minor civil divisions in the States lie in 2 counties and 1 lies in 5 counties. 101 Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 251 such farms with 352,176 total acres and in 1935 there were 215 such farms. 102 Exclusive of cross-line acreage in farms indicating but not reporting the extent of the cross-line acreage. All land in such farms amounted to 14,841 acres. 103 Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 26 farms with 58,887 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other counties and 1 farm with 2,720 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 4 other counties.

z Less than one-tenth of 1 percent. [104] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because 2 of the minor civil divisions in the State lie in 2 counties. [105] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 68 such farms with 22,324 total acres and in 1935 there were 165 such farms. [106] Exclusive of cross-line acreage in farms indicating but not reporting the extent of the cross-line acreage. All land in such farms amounted to 4,908 acres. [107] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 37 farms with 11,067 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other counties and 2 farms with 947 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 3 other counties.

(2) Less than one-tenth of 1 percent. [108] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because 7 of the minor civil divisions in the State lie in 2 counties. [109] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 164 such farms with 314,356 total acres, 2 of which farms reported cross-line acreage in other minor civil divisions of the county, in other counties of the State, and in other States. In 1935 there were 117 such farms. [110] Exclusive of cross-line acreage in farms indicating but not reporting the extent of the cross-line acreage. All land in such farms amounted to 72,992 acres. [111] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 41 farms with 115,661 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other counties and 2 farms with 29,550 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 3 other counties. [112] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 1 farm with 420 total acres reporting 420 cross-line acres located in State, but county was not specified and 3 farms with 4,521 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 counties of this State.

*Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because 7 of the minor civil divisions in the State lies in 2 counties, see footnote 108.

[2] Less than one-tenth of 1 percent. [113] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 12 such farms with 109,136 total acres and in 1935 there were 32 such farms. [114] Exclusive of cross-line acreage in farms indicating but not reporting the extent of the cross-line acreage. All land in such farms amounted to 44,249 acres. [115] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 17 farms with 328,103 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other counties and 1 farm with 6,200 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 3 other counties.

[2] Less than one-tenth of 1 percent. [116] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because 7 of the minor civil divisions in the State lie in 2 counties. [117] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 18 such farms with 14,642 total acres and in 1935 there were 13 such farms. [118] Exclusive of cross-line acreage in farms indicating but not reporting the extent of the cross-line acreage. All land in such farms amounted to 7,514 acres. [119] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 5 farms with 10,333 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other counties.

[2] Less than one-tenth of 1 percent. [121] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 5 such farms with 3,186 total acres and in 1935 there were 11 such farms. [122] Exclusive of cross-line acreage in farms indicating but not reporting the extent of the cross-line acreage. All land in such farms amounted to 57 acres. [123] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 1 farm with 10,000 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other counties.

(2) Less than one-tenth of 1 percent. [124] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because 3 of the minor civil divisions in the State lie in 2 counties and 1 lies in 3 counties. [125] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 174 such farms with 407,736 total acres 1 of which farms reported cross-line acreage in other minor civil divisions of the county, and other counties of the State, and in other States. In 1935, there were 199 such farms. [126] Exclusive of cross-line acreage in farms indicating but not reporting the extent of the cross-line acreage. All land in such farms amounted to 127,860 acres. [127] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 27 farms with 129,555 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other counties. [128] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 3 farms with 23,009 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 counties of this State.

[2] Less than one-tenth of 1 percent. [129] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 6 such farms with 9,616 total acres and in 1935 there were 16 such farms. [130] Exclusive of cross-line acreage in farms indicating but not reporting the extent of the cross-line acreage. All land in such farms amounted to 701 acres. [131] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 4 farms with 1,072 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other counties. [132] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 1 farm with 85 total acres reporting 10 cross-line acres located in State, but county was not specified.

[2] Less than one-tenth of 1 percent. [149] Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940 there were 6 such farms with 12,837 total acres and in 1935 there were 10 such farms. [150] Exclusive of cross-line acreage in farms indicating but not reporting the extent of the cross-line acreage. All land in such farms amounted to 151 acres. [151] Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 9 farms with 8,840 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other counties.

[2]Less than one-tenth of 1 percent. [152]Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because 15 of the minor civil divisions in the State lie in 2 counties. [153]Totals do not equal the sum for farms reporting cross-line acreage within the county, in other counties within the same State and in other States or with location not specified because of farms with cross-line acreage in and out of county or in and out of State. In 1940, there were 104 such farms with 30,931 total acres and in 1935 there were 222 such farms. [154]Exclusive of cross-line acreage in farms indicating but not reporting the extent of the cross-line acreage. All land in such farms amounted to 1,209 acres. [155]Totals do not equal the sum of individual counties because of 26 farms with 8,420 total acres reporting cross-line acreage in 2 other counties.

[2]The apparent excess of land reported as located in the county (line 9 plus line 64) over the land area of the county (line 11) is probably due to incomplete reports of cross-line acreage. See text.
