

From 1949 to 1959 the number of farms reporting cotton harvested declined more than one-half. Most of the decline was in farms reporting less than 25 acres.

More than half of the cotton in 1959 was produced on the 28,648 farms which harvested 100 or more bales. Approximately one-fifth of the cotton was harvested on farms producing 500 or more bales.

